

Details

ART-Dok - Digital repository art history (ART-Dok)

ART-Dok is the full-text repository of the Virtual Library for Art, arthistoricum.net and is made available by Heidelberg University Library. It offers members of the academic community worldwide the opportunity to publish their texts in electronic format on the internet at no charge. The documents will be stored and their long-term availability guaranteed by using standardized addresses (URN) and metadata (OAI-PMH). They are also accessible through the German union catalogues and search engines.

Scientific Services

ART-Dok provides an opportunity to publish, index and to long-term archive documents on Art History – free of charge and in electronic format supporting the principles of Open Access. Heidelberg University Library guarantees for the long-term availability and citability of the published documents by offering permanent and standardized URLs / URNs. The import of the data as well as the compilation of the metadata is done by the staff of Heidelberg University Library. Both original primary publications and secondary publications of already printed works can be published in ART-Dok. The so-called “paper series” offers the possibility to create a pool of electronic publications linked to a person or a certain topic. If required sub-portals can be set up, which provide authors with direct access to their electronic publications. The layout of these sub-portals can be adapted to the requests of the authors. Electronic publications can also be united to a group forming a so-called “Collection”. The main focus of the operating institution lies in the systematic indexing or rather the visibility of electronic publications in disciplinary and interdisciplinary search systems. In addition to being listed in German library catalogues, ART-DOK is a registered data provider for the Open Archives Initiative and holds its own OAI-interface.
